MEMPHIS APPEAL.

THE GREAT CAPTAIN.

"It is impossible for any one," Napoleon said, about the time of the battle of Dresden, "to have less head than the Duke of Reggio:" and yet Oudinot (Duke of Reggio), was in some respects a great General.

The same Great Captain, one of the only three or four whom the world has known, and whose only rivals are Cæsar, Hannibal, Marlborough, Turenne and Frederick, would never permit Berthier, his invaluable Chief of Staff, to attempt to manage armies on the field. Before the battle of Austerlitz, he had so disarranged every thing, and separated the corps of the army, that Napoleon said to him: "If I were not perfectly assured of your devotion to me, I should believe you false and disloyal."

He never trusted Ney with the conduct of great strategical operations. Perhaps his greatest Marshals were Massena, Macdonald, Soult and Suchet; and he knew the exact value of each. Massena practised, in Switzerland, what was afterwards called the method of Napoleon, and won a well deserved reputation against Suwarrow before Napoleon commanded an army. Macdonald should be immortal for his passage of the Italian Alps, and his charge against the enemy's centre at Wagram.

Either of these men was an infinitely greater soldier than Grant. Even Marmont, who committed so terrible a blunder by the flank movement that cost France the defeat of Salamanca, was a far abler General.

Read Napier's description of the great strategical struggles in Spain between Wellington and Massena, and Wellington and Soult, and then inquire with what pretence of justice Grant can be compared to these great Captains. Read the history of Napoleon's Italian campaign, where, with thirty-five or forty thousand men, moving with the rapidity of lightning, he defeated forces amounting in the aggregate to three times the number of his own men.

General Grant has never won a battle, without having by far the larger force. At Belmont he was utterly defeated, and stated his loss at seventy or eighty men. The Government has buried over three thousand, we think, who fell on that field.

As to his contest with Lee, when the Federal soldiery had become hardened and disciplined veterans, the following facts will show to what glory he is entitled as a great commander:

"Grant, on assuming command, May 4, 1864, had of effective men, besides the reserve, when he crossed the Rapidan, 125,000.

"Lee, at the same date, had an effective force of 52,000.

"Grant's reinforcements up to the battle of Cold Harbor, June 3, were 97,000.

"Lee's reinforcements, up to the same date, were 18,000.

"Grant's total force, including reinforcements, was 222,000.

"Lee's total force, including reinforcements, was 70,000

"Returns to their respective Governments showed that when both armies had reached the James (June 10th), the number of Grant's army that had been put hors du combat was 117,000.

"Up to the same date, the number of Lee's men who had been put hors du combat was 19,000."

Under Napoleon, Grant would never have been deemed to deserve the baton of Marshal of the Empire. History will, in due time, measure his merits and assign him his true place on the roll of Generals, as a brave, persistent, obstinate commander, who was incapable as a strategist, and demanded, for success, a vast preponderance of numbers.

Ability as a Statesman he has not shown himself to possess. He is no speaker, and has not proven himself a great thinker. For one thing, nevertheless, let us pay him due respect. He showed himself a man of honour, when he vindicated the binding force of the rights acquired by the paroles given by Confederate Generals. But for him, the Nation would have been utterly dishonoured by a shameful violation of good faith.

WENDELL PHILLIPS AGAIN.

That common scold, Wendell Phillips, continues to gabble. His venom, like that of snakes, becomes more acrid during the hot summer months. The rattle-snake becomes blind in the droughts of August; and Phillips in his blind malignity, strikes at random. This is one of his latest effusions:

The attempt to impeach the President has failed. It is no longer worth while to spend much time in discussing why. Every one of his vices marshaled a cohort in his defence. And we have no doubt, if the whole truth is ever known, that we shall see Freemasonry acting as Quartermaster in the camp, and Chief Jesuit in that Council Chamber.

But, putting aside such causes of the Senate's action as women, whisky, cowardice, greenbacks, Freemasonry, negro hate, offices for one's sixteen pine-tree cousins, a diseased Chief Justice, spite, dyspepsia and noodleism, it is evident, on the face of things, that while a very large majority of the people, and specially of the Republican party, wished its success, there was a very strong doubt among the party leaders whether such success would help the party. Hence the failure of impeachment. We cannot suppose the Republican party so weak, awkward, undisciplined and insufficient as to let the measure fail, had its leaders heartily desired its success. If the party had been willing to put itself and all its power into Gen. Butler's hands for sixty days Johnson would not now sit in the White House. Any able man thoroughly in earnest could have carried impeachment. Personal jealousy and dislike of the Radical element has wrought a result which on the surface sinks the Republican party, as an organization, beneath contempt. A group of spoiled children quarelling about their toys—a pack of newsboys gathered, for the first time, under a schoolhouse roof—these are pictures of the national Senate. A rustic bumpkin caught in a Peter Funk auction room—this is the Republican party. At least this is the public, outside judgment.

Phillips is, intus et in cute, a liar. The President is a Freemason; but we know that the Masonic Order and Masons never in the least sought to influence the opinions or control the votes of Senators. We do not know that either of the seven Republican Senators, who voted to acquit, is a Mason at all; while Benjamin F. Butler is a Mason, of the 32d degree, claiming to be, but not lawfully, a 33d; and Stewart and Nye, of Nevada, who voted to convict, are Masons, and so, we have heard, is Sprague.

Freemasonry does not permit its initiates to interfere in the least degree with the course of public justice. It only demands that, when one Mason is to judge another, he shall do strict and impartial justice, without fear, favour or affection.

John C. Breckinridge is a Mason, of the 33d degree, member of the Supreme Council of that degree for the Southern jurisdiction of the United States; and Andrew Johnson is a Mason of the 32d degree, of the obedience of that Council: but we know that he has never been appealed to in behalf of Mr. Breckinridge, by any Mason of the Rite to which both belong. Howell Cobb is a member of the Supreme Council, and remains unpardoned.

But it is the prerogative of Wendell Phillips and his tribe to babble nonsense.

A MODERN PALADIN.

There is not an unhung villain in the world, who is not a gentleman, a Paladin, a Bayard, a Du Guesclin, a Sir Philip Sidney, compared with that most unregenerate scoundrel, Benjamin F. Butler.

If the Radical faction were capable of the feeling of scorn, contempt and disgust for one loathsome with the leprosy of apostacy and the utter absence of every thing that makes human nature respectable, it would never have selected for a leader the man who was the writer of half a dozen Democratic State-rights platforms, who voted fifty times for Breckinridge, at Baltimore, and encouraged the South to secede, with assurances of aid and comfort from the North.

The National Intelligencer terms Butler "an unscrupulous expert, who is capable of the worst perversion, and who cannot be abashed by any exposure, however damaging," and adds:

His allegations were frequently disproved during the impeachment trial, while his barefaced endeavors to misrepresent the evidence excited general indignation on the part of all unprejudiced minds. We believe, candidly, that his shameless effrontery, wilful disregard of truth, and abuse of the propriety of the body, did as much as anything else to offend, and even disgust Senators like Mr. Fessenden, who saw in the case nothing but the unworthy tricks and reckless "dodges" of a vular attorney, whose proper sphere was before a police court.

There is abundant reason to dispute the statements in Butler's so-called report of testimony, upon which the imprisonment of the witness Woolley was ordered. It will be remembered that when Mr. Nelson brought the Alta Vela speculation to the notice of the Senate, Butler, after several days of preparation, asked leave to make a statement in reply, in which he said emphatically: "This" (the recommendation which he and the three other managers signed) "I believe to have been in the early part of February; certainly before the act was committed by Andrew Johnson which brought on this impeachment." He was seconded by Logan, one of the parties concerned, who stated: "The counsel for the respondent is mistaken about this letter having been signed after the impeachment commenced by either Gen. Butler or myself. I know well when I signed it. * * I signed the letter long before there was anything thought of impeachment."

These positive, direct, and unqualified contradictions of a fact which had only taken place a short time before, were met by Mr. Nelson in the most effectual way. He produced before the court the original paper, signed by Butler, Bingham, Logan and Stevens, bearing date the ninth of March, and after the President had been summoned for trial. Their own signatures established the falsity of their own statements, and thus impressed everybody with the belief that fraud and falsehood were the chief props of impeachment.

If a member of Parliament were convicted of such infamies as those of which Butler is proud and which his satellites admire, he would not be admitted into a Club in the Kingdom, or be heard to speak in the House of Commons, or allowed to dine at a gentleman's table. In that country it still continues to be disgraceful to lie, and Quirk, Gammon and Snap are not the prototypes of Statesmen. Also there is honour, as of old, among Frenchmen, and a French Butler, making so disgraceful an exhibition of himself as the New England Butler did in the Impeachment trial, would be insulted by every man that he met, as one unfit for the society of gentlemen. That he is not tolerated, but honoured, in the Congress of the United States, is the shame of the country. Some of our contemporaries call him Robespierre Butler. That is an insult to the memory of Robespierre, who, though originally a small and dull attorney of Arras, was incorruptible, decorous, and not mendacious, and did not practice the mean tricks of the attorney in the National Convention. Butler far more resembles in his brutality the butcher Legendre.

The Burning of Magdala—What was Found in the Fortress.

Magdala (April 17) Cor. London Times.]

Magdala was burned this afternoon, and dense columns of flame and smoke from its lofty summits are still proclaiming far and wide to the wondering tribes of semi-savage warriors who infest the surrounding country that the reign of their greatest enemy is at an end, and the crowning act of England's vengeance performed. The town itself was uninteresting, save from its accidental associations as the prison of our fellow-countrymen and other Europeans, even for Abyssinia, a charge so grave that no man, it is to be hoped, would lightly bring it against any town calling itself Christian. It consisted of the ordinary collection of huts, most of them built of grass and wood, with thatched conical roofs, and did not boast even one building of exceptional beauty or importance. The Church was one of the meanest and dirtiest that we have seen in Abyssinia, while the palace of the great Emperor Theodore differed only from the surrounding huts of his humblest subjects in being larger, two-storied, and with a thatched roof, not conical, but oblong, giving it much the appearance of an English barn, except that no decent English farmer would allow any animal that he valued to live in a building so dark, dirty, and ill-ventilated. In the workshop of his European artizans there were of course many signs of modern civilization, though nearly all of a practical, very few of a strictly ornamental or luxurious kind. Workmen's tools and large glass tumblers, apparently of English make, seemed the principal articles of import, drinking being, next to fighting, the great business of a wealthy Abyssinian's life, and these mixed up with crosses, censers, mitres, bells—the spoils of Gondar churches—Amharic Bibles, odd volumes of encyclopedias, foolscap paper, old matchlocks, pistols, swords, powder-flasks and percussion caps, formed altogether as strange a jumble as it would be easy to find anywhere.

The "loot," on the whole, has rather disappointed the captors. Mr. Holmes, for instance, who came out here as an archæologist for the British Museum, and who has hitherto had a singularly disappointing and unfruitful journey, was lucky enough to rescue a handsome crown, probably an Archbishop's, and a gold chalice, bearing the following inscription in Amharic:

"The chalice of King Adam Segund, called Yasoo, the son of Queen Brahm Morguses, presented to Kwoskwan, Sanctuary (Gondar.) May my body and soul be purified. Weight, twenty-five workkits of pure gold, value five hundred dollars. Made by Waldo Georgia."

The Emperor's own crown has also been found, and is, I believe, to be sent home to the Queen.

CONDENSED DECISIONS OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Brownsville, June Term, 1868.

BY H. CLAY KING, ESQ.

No. 14.—Greenwald vs. Heeman & Co. From Haywood Chancery.

Facts: An intestate was a member of a partnership at his death; he owned no property outside of the partnership. The creditors of the partnership filed their bill, and attached the partnership assets. The widow of the intestate applied to the County for her year's allowance, and the County Court allowed her $500 as her year's allowance, not designating any particular fund or property out of which it was to be raised. She then filed her petition in the Chancery suit to be made a party, and for the enforcement of her claim allowed by the County Court.

Held: Under the statute on the subject, the widow's year's allowance was intended to be in specific articles, which, when set apart, does not go into the administration of the estate, the title vesting directly in the widow; and no such allowance being made in this case, the rights of the creditors cannot be affected by the action of the County Court, and the petition of the widow must be dismissed. The question is reserved as to whether any allowance in money could be made to the widow after the payment of the claims of the creditors.

No. 15.—Venable vs. Snoddy. From Obion Chancery.

Where an officer, without authority from the plaintiff, collected Confederate notes in satisfaction of an execution in his hands, on bill filed, the satisfaction will be set aside, and the defendants compelled to pay in lawful currency.

No. 16.—Coward vs. Blake.

Held: 1. The stamp acts of Congress are constitutional, including the penalties imposed for their violation.

2. That under the stamp acts of 1865 and 1866, the Revenue Collector alone is authorized to stamp the paper where there has been a failure by the parties themselves.

3. The note sued on in this case not being properly stamped by the parties, and the plaintiff having declined under the permission of the Court, to have the paper stamped by Collector, the same was not admissible in evidence, the action being on the note itself.

No. 17.—Burr vs. Winn. Action against a widow for articles sold and delivered to her while a married woman.

Held: 1. The contract of a married woman to bind her separate estate, to be valid, must be express and not one implied by the law.

2. But circumstantial evidence may be admitted to prove the express contract.

3. Unless it is shown that a married woman had a separate estate, and power to charge it, her contract is void.

4. A promise by a widow to fulfill a previous void contract, is not binding.

No. 18.—Ford vs. Larkin.

Held: That a County Court has no power to compel a guardian to surrender the possession of real estate to his ward. Neither the Code, nor the law before, ever conferred such jurisdiction on the County Court. The writ of possession awarded by the County Court in this case is quashed.

No. 19.—League vs. Merchants' National Bank.

Held: That neither the revenue act of 1865, nor any other act of this State taxes the privilege of banking, so far as the National Banks are concerned.

Cattle Disease in Indiana.

A cattle disease of unusual virulence and fatality has broken out in the North-eastern part of Tippecanoe county, of which we give the following account from the Lafayette Journal:

A terrible and fatal epidemic has broken out among the cows in the North-western part of this county, and they are dying off very rapidly. About one-third of the cows in the neighborhood of Wild Cat and north of the city, have died within ten days past, and several have died in the city proper. The disease is rapid in its effects—the animals being apparently well in the morning and before night are dead, in many instances dropping down by the roadside within an hour or two after milking. The first symptom noticeable is a stiffening in the limbs and an inability to walk, after which death speedily ensues. After death, the body swells very rapidly and becomes very offensive—a green sickening smelling fluid oozing from the mouth and nostrils. The same disease is also thinning out the stock in several parts of Illinois. Numerous examinations have been made, but they throw no light upon the cause of the disease, and up to this time no remedy has been discovered.

THE New Orleans Times of Sunday, contains a paragraph announcing the death of ex-Gov. John J. McRae, of Mississippi. The sad intelligence comes in the shape of a letter to the editor of that paper stating that Gov. McRae died of consumption at Balize, British Honduras, on the 31st ult. The letter adds:

He came down on the last steamer, accompanied by his sister, Miss McRae, with the hope that this climate might benefit him; but if it ever would, he was too late in making the trial. Another good and true man has gone.

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

ALBERT PIKE & CO.

Vera Atque Honesta Dicere.

For President of the United States,

ANDREW JOHNSON,

OF TENNESSEE.

[Subject only to the decision of the National Democratic Conservative Convention.]

THE STATE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Having returned from Nashville, it becomes incumbent on the assistant editor to afford an inside view of the assemblage, lately convened and designated as the State Democratic Convention, which assembled on Tuesday, and adjourned the same evening, after a somewhat boisterous and at times ill-natured session, in which one thing predominated over all others—the intention to procure an expression in favor of President Johnson, and, to give it prominence, prevent the friends of any other gentleman from bringing forward his name.

The action of the Convention, as represented by its published history, was not the hearty response of the representatives of the people to the demands and emergency of the hour. There were many heterogeneous elements in the Convention itself—many who had axes to grind, for themselves or others. Under the plea of forwarding the business of organization, at a preliminary meeting, the night before, (Monday evening,) a series of resolutions were introduced, with Dorsey B. Thomas, of the Sixth District, in the Chair, cutting out the whole business of the Convention, although not more than a third, if so many, of the delegates were present. After some discussion pro and con, a motion to adjourn sine die prevailed. This was understood to leave every one untrammeled as to what was said and done, and the Convention had its own work to perform, commencing de novo, as though there had been no effort to forestall and direct its organization.

It may be here suggested that there were the usual number of pretentious individuals, such as could say the merest commonplaces with all the grave pomposity of oracular eloquence, and quite a number who were anxious to rise above the dead level by aid of seeing their names through illuminated types. These were bound to let off gas whenever a subject, not entirely beyond their comprehension, was entertained.

It was very perceptible that the friends of Mr. Pendleton greatly preponderated in the Convention, and it is due to them to say, that they magnanimously consented to waive expressing any preference for him, leaving the delegates representing Tennessee in the New York Convention uninstructed, save to cast their votes with the champion who shall secure the largest number of Northern Democratic votes. In yielding thus far, they felt confident they were subserving the interest of the accomplished Western statesman. They knew him to be the choice of the great West, and that in selecting him as their standard bearer, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky were not prepared simply to cast a complimentary vote. They endorsed his policy, were satisfied with his record, and nominated him as their choice because they considered him honest, capable, and in every way identified with the best interests of the country. So, too, thought the large majority of the delegates to the Tennessee State Democratic Convention, and were willing to concede much to the friends of Mr. Johnson, as they were well aware the compliment was empty, and there was a distinct pledge he would take an early occasion to withdraw his name, and in so withdrawing, would make such a declaration as would greatly increase the chances of the success of those opposed to Radicalism. The bait took, and the sugar-coated pill was swallowed. A resolution, provided with an if, was agreed upon, and the friends of Mr. Johnson per se were jubilant. As a tub to the whale of New England puritanism, it was considered expedient to kill secession over again, and declare that it was made very dead when the Northern arms triumphed—the South recognizing the fact, but claiming that the Constitution reserved certain rights which not even the supreme power of the Federal Government might invade or abrogate.

As another tub to the same whale, and especially to the blue-coats and shad-bellies, the wish of West Tennessee to be represented among the delegates for the State at Large by Gen. N. B. Forrest, met with strenuous objections, first urged by Edwards, of Bradley, and when he withdrew his objection, renewed by Reeves, of Washington, who had been a Federal Captain in the army of East Tennessee! who thought the time had not yet come for the participation of rebels in the Government. He was replied to by Col. Condee, of this place, and Maj. Walker, both Federal officers, the positions he assumed utterly demolished, and himself, if he could be reached through his panoply of self-conceit, made out a very small vegetable of the tuber species.

In reference to himself, Gen. Forrest was peculiarly happy, frank and unpretending. He had gone to the Convention to harmonize any discordant elements that might appear. He was willing to withdraw his name and would do so for the sake of harmony. He only looked to the good of the country, and was willing to work wherever they put him—in the saddle, in the lead as the off-horse, or at the wheels. He had no friends there to reward and no enemies to punish. He was there to harmonize with the Federal soldier, with the Union man, or any Radical who would come back and do his duty to his country. He said Pendleton was his first choice for the Presidency, but he was willing to unite upon any candidate who was most acceptable to the Northern Democracy.

Col. Turney, when the resolutions were read, desired to have the first resolution read again, as he was not certain he understood its purport. He had come prepared to unite with the Federal soldier, with any one, to promote union and restore the country to prosperity. To his understanding the reference to secession was in bad taste, and revived an exploded issue. It had nothing to do with the contest before the country. The less said about it the better, and he moved to lay the resolution on the table.

Hon. H. S. Foote advocated the adoption of the resolution, as it would once for all those who were not satisfied that the bone of contention had been yielded, that the South no longer contended for a right considered settled by the sword. There was another resolution, however, which had been dictated at Washington, and to which he was unwilling to give his assent.

Mr. Foote alluded to the resolution complimenting President Johnson, and indicating a preference for him, if his name should be brought before the New York Convention, for which very flattering compliment, it was promised that the President would gracefully decline the proffered honor, and impart such information as would be advantageous to the party. The motion did not prevail, and Col. Turney's motion was tabled, there being an indisposition to spring any question of dispute, for which the Convention with many discordant materials appeared cocked and primed, and only waited for a starter.

The President of the Convention, Edmond Cooper, of Bedford, quick and expert as a presiding officer, could not be induced to understand that a large portion of the Convention could not hear the resolutions read, did not know the question before the body, and were exceedingly anxious to vote understandingly. Col. Burch, who was nearer than the writer of this, explained that he could hear nothing, and repeated the points to which he desired to call the attention of the presiding officer, but could make no impression, being entirely ignored or unheeded. The Chair decided that the resolutions had been adopted, although but one was understood to be properly before the Convention.

Gen. W. B. Bates moved a reconsideration of the vote on the resolution.

Judge Guild seconded the motion, and spoke strongly in favor of the Greenback principle as in antagonism to the payment of bonds in gold. He also was averse to any display of approbation of and admiration for the course of President Johnson, which was not warranted by the facts.

On motion of Gov. Brown, the Convention took a recess till 5 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

The Convention reassembled promptly at the hour appointed. The question being stated by the Chair, Col. Bailey said it would be well to have the resolutions read again, as there seemed to be some misunderstanding about them. It was suggested that they were in the hands of the printer, and until they could be had in printed form, it would be well to pass over to other business before the Convention. The resolutions reported were as follows:

WHEREAS, The people of Tennessee, irrespective of former party affiliations, or differences of opinion arising out of the recent civil war, in convention assembled, for the purpose of appointing delegates to represent them in the National Democratic Convention, to meet in the city of New York on the 4th day of July next, are profoundly sensible of the troubled condition of public affairs, and regard the approaching election of a Chief Magistrate as the most important ever held since the establishment of the Government. Is its result to the nation at large, they conceive involved in the preservation of the Constitution, and its guarantees of equal and exact justice, individual liberty, the general welfare and domestic tranquility. To themselves, in great part laboring under disfranchisement and unjust dispossession of the primary and essential rights of citizens of the republic, they esteem it to be a crisis on which depends their personal freedom and future prosperity as a community. Thus deeply impressed, they have convened in a spirit oblivious of past misunderstanding, and resolved among themselves to exclude from their deliberations for the common good all questions decided by the war, and to banish from their breasts all unkind feeling they may have excited; and to take counsel only how best they may re-establish political intercourse and association with that portion of their fellow-citizens of other States who coincide in opinion with them, and desire to assist in the administration of the Federal Government principles and measures which will restore it to its integrity. In this step they deem it proper to adopt the name and designation borne by the only political organization with which they can associate, and in thus formally uniting themselves with the Democratic party as it now exists, they herewith declare the principles they maintain, and the measures they hold necessary for a wise and safe administration of the public interests:

Resolved, That, as in the course of events, the question whether a State of the American Union could, under the compact, secede, was submitted to a contest of arms, and decided in the negative; and as it is wise that theories in Government should be abandoned when found impracticable, therefore, the American people, North and South, should accept such decision as final and conclusive; nevertheless, we assert and maintain that the Constitution created the Federal Government supreme under well defined limitations and restrictions, leaving the States a large mass of residuary rights and powers over their domestic concerns, and making the States coequal in respect of such rights; and that the result of the war has not and should not in any manner be construed to impair these rights, or aggrandise the power of the General Government to the endangerment of public liberty.

Resolved, That we recognize the system of African slavery formerly existing in a portion of this country as extinguished by the result of the war, and that fact is ratified by a binding constitutional amendment; but that we regard the measures of the Federal Congress bestowing the elective franchise on the black race in ten States, and withholding it from large numbers of the white race—the owners of the soil and payers of the Government taxes—as a gross usurpation of power, and that such subjection of these States to the political and social control of negroes, is a policy unjust, unwise and oppressive, and tending to excite a war of races; and that any measure which seeks to deprive the white men of America of their rightful position of superiority and supremacy in the administration of the Governments, both Federal and State, or to divide or impair it, is fraught with great danger to the perpetuity of free Republican institutions.

Resolved, That notwithstanding the enormous frauds in the creation of the public debt, and the corrupt and ruinous extravagance by which it is being increased, the faith of the nation is pledged to its payment, principal and interest, in the terms of the acts of Congress issuing the bonds which represent it but not otherwise; and we are opposed to extending the time of payment, and the consequent increase of the amount of gold interest to more than the principal; and also to the view that the principal of a large portion of these bonds is payable in gold; and, that while we hold gold and silver to be the true constitutional currency, we declare that the five-twenty bonds should be paid in the same currency received by the Government for their issue, and that by the withdrawal of the money granted to the national banks, we hold this result can be accomplished without an undue increase of paper money, now the only circulating medium; and that by this means the people can soonest be relieved of the burden of a public debt corrupting and enslaving in its character; and that in this there is no infraction of the public faith nor violation of contract with the holders of bonds.

Resolved, That every species of property in the country, including the Government bonds, which receive the equal protection of the Government, should bear an equal share of the burdens of taxation; and that as justice is the true foundation of all good government, there should not exist a favored class paid in gold, while the Government discharges its debts to the mass of the people, in a currency which is kept depreciated in value by this iniquitous system.

Resolved, That the doctrines and practices of the radical Republican party now in possession of the Legislative department of the Federal Government, and endeavoring by encroachment on the powers of the Executive and Judicial branches to absorb to itself all power, will inevitably lead, if not checked, to the destruction of the republican system of government, and the civil liberties of the people; and that it is the highest dictate of patriotism to oppose it in gross and detail; and that for the purpose of rendering opposition effective, we cordially ally ourselves with that party whose creed, enunciated by Thomas Jefferson in 1801, and approved in substance and spirit by the great leaders of every party that has flourished until the era of the civil war, and which is in the following words: "Equal and exact justice to all men of whatever State or persuasion, religious or political; peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none; the support of the State Governments in all their rights as the most competent administration of our domestic concerns, and the surest bulwark against anti-republican tendencies; the preservation of the General Government in its whole constitutional vigor as the sheet anchor of peace at home and safety abroad; a jealous care of the rights of election by the people, and the supremacy of the civil over the military authority."

Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, in the discharge of his great functions as President of the United States at a period of trying and unprecedented embarrassment, has rendered his name illustrious by the fidelity with which he has sought "to preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution" against the assault of a revolutionary faction, and in his recent signal triumph in that behalf has earned the gratitude of the American people, and rendered himself worthy of the highest mark of confidence that may be bestowed upon him; and in the event his name should be offered to the National Nominating Convention, it is due that the representatives of his own State should cast a united vote in his favor. Nevertheless, our delegates are at liberty to co-operate with Northern delegates in the selection as a candidate of any statesman prominently associated and identified with the principles and measures herein affirmed, and who will be most acceptable to the conservative Democracy of the nation.

The following names were submitted as delegates from the State at Large to the New York Convention: T. A. R. Nelson, A. O. P. Nicholson, N. B. Forrest (Humphrey Bate having been withdrawn) and Edmond Cooper, with alternates John M. Fleming, John C. Brown, Gen. Trauernicht (Federal), and P. T. Scruggs.

It is impossible to give a resume of the very fine speech of Gen. Quarles, in which he said the platform of principles should be declared by the National Convention, and our delegates should be left free to give an undivided support to the choice of a majority of the Convention. He referred to the position of Mr. Johnson as being eminently historical and needing no indorsement. He hoped the resolutions would be recommitted, and that a resolution would be reported, without reference to individuals, but pledging our delegates to the candidate who is evidently the choice of the Convention.

The President stated that the question before the Convention was on striking out the name of Gen. N. B. Forrest. After some conversation, and a motion to lay on the table the motion to strike out, it was withdrawn, but was renewed by Capt. Reeves, of Washington. After a spirited discussion, in which high encomiums were paid Gen. Forrest, the report of the committee was sustained, the first and second districts voting in the negative.

The motion of Gen. Bate was then considered, to reconsider the vote on the resolutions, with the view to amend by striking out the latter clause of the resolution expressing a preference for the nomination of Mr. Johnson, provided his name should be offered to the Convention.

Col. Baxter moved to lay the motion on the table. Ayes—first, second, third and sixth districts; nays—fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth districts. The motion to reconsider was lost, the seventh district changing its vote and voting nay.

On motion of Gen. Bate, the Chair was authorized to appoint an Executive Committee.

The Chairman announced that he would appoint the committee at leisure, and publish the names in the papers.

Mr. Jones, of Giles, offered a resolution that the thanks of the Convention be tendered to Mrs. Polk and Mrs. Judge Catron for the use of the portraits of Polk, Washington, Jackson and Johnson, which adorned the hall of the Convention. Adopted.

Dr. W. W. Lee, of Lauderdale, offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That our warmest thanks are due to the President, Andrew Johnson, for the noble, manly and patriotic efforts he has made for the preservation of the Constitution and rights of the people, and as clemency is the characteristic which most assimilates fallible men to the Divine attributes, we respectfully but earnestly urge upon him the issuing of a proclamation of general amnesty for all political offenses committed during the late rebellion, and the restoration of all citizens, as far as in his power, to their former rights and immunities, as the crowning glory of his administration.

Hon. Emerson Etheridge and Hon. George W. Jones were appointed electors at large, Col. John Baxter declining in favor of Mr. Jones.

Adjourned sine die.

The private dispatches that went out from Nashville were of varied hues, and presenting results and impressions either totally false or very much at variance with the facts. The special to the Louisville Courier is exceedingly distorted and exaggerated, in which the facts are as a grain of wheat to a bushel of chaff. There was nothing to warrant it but a strange obliquity resolutely determined on perverting the truth, and misrepresenting what actually transpired. The magnanimity and forbearance of the friends of Mr. Pendleton are set down as discomfiture, when the truth is, if they had acted as represented, they could have defeated any expression of confidence in President Johnson, and carried the nomination of their favorite. They were willing that no preference should be asserted, and this is represented by the special of the Courier as the defeat of desperate efforts to get their favorite nominated.

The leader of the Republican Banner of the 10th, savors very much of the same sort. It sends up a shout as though a great triumph had been accomplished. As faithful to honest journalism, the facts have been here represented, and in accordance with the motto which stands at the head of this journal. No personal preference, no personal dislike have been permitted to interpose. The ruling and conduct of the presiding officer were severely animadverted upon, and the evident relief and satisfaction he exhibited when the resolutions were disposed of, was visible even to the least observing. He had got a very troublesome piece of business off his hands, and although it perhaps was not all he wished, yet adroit co-operation of that great lover of public opinion—the press—might accomplish the rest. The ball has been started with a pretty severe impetus by the Courier and Banner.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Yates, from the Territorial Committee, reported a bill admitting Colorado.

The joint resolution granting permission to officers and soldiers to wear the badges of the corps in which they served during the war, was passed.

The resolutions of the National Board of Trade favoring the House bill to facilitate the import trade of the United States, was presented and referred.

The bill for the relief of certain naval contractors was considered. Hume's amendment declaring the award to be in full of all claims was rejected, and that of Hendricks, making it a full discharge of all claims on account of all vessels upon which the auditing board had made an allowance in their report, was adopted and the bill passed.

Sumner moved a reconsideration of the vote on the passage of the bill to admit the Rebel States in order to allow Yates to make a report, which was agreed to.

Yates then spoke in favor of declaring equal rights, and Sumner withdrew his motion.

The bill to continue the Freedmen's Bureau was then taken up.

Steward introduced a bill relating to the contested election cases in Washington, which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Trumbull called up the bill to relieve from political disability R. R. Butler, of Tennessee, the Committee on the Judiciary having reported a substitute removing the disabilities, and requiring as a prerequisite to the holding of office, an oath simply to support the Constitution of the United States, and to give faith and allegiance to the same, and for the faithful discharge of the duties of office.

Davis moved to amend by inserting after "names" the words "and all other persons."

Saulsberry suggested as a substitute the words, "or any other citizen of the United States."

Davis accepted the amendment and called for the ayes and nays. The five Democratic Senators present only voting aye.

The substitute was then adopted, and the question being on the final passage of the bill, Buckalew spoke in opposition to it. He discussed the case of Butler, calling him the worst case that Congress could choose for this relief, and urging the injustice of this action upon separate cases, rather than making a general provision applying to all who made application for such relief. The bill then passed by 23 to 5.

Vickers was present, but had paired off with Patterson, of Tennessee, who would have voted aye.

HOUSE.

Marshall sent to the Clerk's desk and had read a letter from Mr. Merrick, the counsel for Wooley, the recusant witness, referring to a statement made the other day by Butler, to the effect that he, Butler, was in possession of telegram after telegram, passing between Merrick, Wooley and Warden, the President's short-hand writer. Merrick denies in positive terms that any such telegraphic correspondence had taken place.

Ingersol yielded the floor temporarily to Hunter, who offered a resolution reciting the allegations as to Father McMahon having been flogged in the Kingston (Canada) Penitentiary because an Irish-American Fenian paper had been found on his person, and directing the Committee on Foreign Affairs to inquire into the facts, which was agreed to.

Ashley asked leave to offer a resolution in reference to the recently reported murders in South Carolina of Solomon Dill, of Camden, member elect of the Legislature, of two colored men, citizens of the United States, and others, directing Gen. Scott, the Governor elect, to take the most active measures to bring the assassins to justice, and to offer a reward of $10,000 for their apprehension; and to place in close custody all the desperadoes residing within that vicinity.

Trimble, of Kentucky, objected, and Brooks hoped that there would be no objection, if the murder of Democrats in Tennessee, Alabama and South Carolina were also investigated. The objection was not withdrawn.

The House then went into a Committee of the Whole on the tax bill.

At 3:10 o'clock the Committee rose, temporarily, to allow Butler to offer the following:

Resolved, That C. W. Wooley having appeared before the Committee of Investigation and answered all the questions put to him by the Committee, and having thus purged himself of his contempt of the House in that regard, that he be discharged from arrest, and held only to appear and make further answers if required, according to the summons.

Butler added that the witness had answered fully and distinctly every question that had been put to him, and there seemed in the judgment of the Committee no further reason for keeping him in arrest, and his further attendance would be under a summons. The resolution was adopted.

On the motion of Garfield the House agreed to dispense with the evening session.

On the motion of Bramon the Senate's amendments to the bill to admit the States of North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Georgia and Alabama to representation in Congress, was taken from the Speaker's table and referred to the Reconstruction Committee.

MAMMOTH BEET.—We saw yesterday a mammoth beet, raised on the place of J. P. Prescott, Esq., Chelsea. It has five distinct tops, and is probably five beets grown together. It weighs one pound and a quarter.

THE exhibition of the Central Church Sabbath school, on Union street, will take place this evening at eight o'clock. The exercises will be of a very interesting character. A collection will be taken up during the evening for the benefit of the Sabbath school library. Visitors and friends can come prepared to contribute something to this cause. The public are invited to attend.

A BAD HABIT.—We call the attention of the police to the habit of boys and youths, white and black, of tossing and pitching balls, rocks and other missiles to and fro in the streets. The habit is very dangerous, a physician informing us that he had been called upon to visit, within the past few days, three patients who had been injured by this recklessness.

ALARM OF FIRE.—There was an alarm of fire sounded yesterday morning about ten o'clock. The fire was supposed to be somewhere about the Odd Fellow's Hall, but we have been unable up to writing, to find anybody who knows anything about it. A large crowd soon assembled in the Park, among whom we noticed a great many ladies, all of whom seemed to be terribly disappointed at the sell.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE.—An advertisement in this paper announces the time for beginning the next Academical year of the Kentucky Military Institute. The last year was the most successful in the history of the school. Col. Allen is determined to sustain the well-deserved reputation of the Institute, and with his experience, ability and energy, the result is not doubtful.

FRESH FISH AND VEGETABLES.—Capt. H. A. Lewis, opposite to Jefferson street market, has prepared a large tank, through which there is a continual circulation of fresh water, and in which he proposes to keep a full supply of fresh fish, sufficient to feed the ichthyophagic portion of our community. He will receive his "finny" supplies from Mobile, or the neighboring lakes and streams. He is also agent for the sale of all sorts of fruits and vegetables. A call will abundantly repay the seeker after fresh food.

STATE AND COUNTY TAXES—Very few of the draymen have yet called on the County Clerk for the excess of taxes which, under legal advice, was collected, and by legal advice is to be returned to them. Perhaps a good many of the draymen don't know that their money is waiting for them. The opinions of lawyers having been so useful to the draymen, it is to be regretted that the draymen cannot give an equally potent opinion in behalf of the lawyers, dentists and doctors, lists of whom have been obtained, preparatory to the issuance of hundreds of distress warrants and the consequent seizure of law and medical books and other paraphernalia. The writs are expected to be put in the hands of the Sheriff next week.

THE SHOOTING ON TUESDAY.

A Correct Statement of the Affair.

Mr. J. T. Dalton, a near neighbor of Mr. Hudnell, (not Hottendorff, as we had it,) called upon us yesterday and gave us the following detailed statement of the shooting affair which occurred on Tuesday. It will be seen that it differs very materially from any statement hitherto published, and shows that Mr. Hudnell was not only not to blame in the matter, but was justifiable in his action:

"Mr. Hudnell lives on the Pigeon Roost road, about three hundred yards this side of the State line; he had had the deceased, Fred Farris in his employ for the past two years. On Tuesday Mr. H. sent Farris to Memphis for some peas to plant, and Farris came back home in the evening drunk. He went up to Hudnell's house, and on being spoken to by him, replied very insolently, blackguarding him and his wife in the most shameful language. Hudnell tried to get rid of the negro and spoke kindly to him, but the more he tried to soothe him the more infuriated he became, and at last drawing a pistol, commenced firing at Mr. Hudnell, shooting four times at him. He missed him, and was finally induced to go to his house, cursing all the way.

"Hudnell had no weapons in his house when the fuss commenced, and sent over to a neighbor to borrow a pistol or a gun, and by this time his messenger had returned, bringing a double-barreled shotgun; arming himself with which Hudnell followed Fred up and asked him if he was ready to 'settle the matter then and there.'

"Fred had armed himself by this time with a butcher knife, and, as Hudnell asked the question ran at him with it, saying "yes you ——," and made a slash at him, cutting him severely on the hip."

"Hudnell raised his gun and the first barrel snapped, but the second exploded wounding the negro, but not severely. A hand to hand struggle then commenced and Hudnell broke the gun to pieces over the negro's head—crushing his skull and killing him almost immediately."

After committing the deed Hudnell went and gave himself up to the nearest Police officers. He is represented as being a good citizen, and one of the last persons in the world to commit a deed like that attributed to him by the papers under the erroneous information given by the interested parties, who first came into the city with the news of the affair.

The deceased negro is said to have been quiet enough when sober, but a perfect desperado when drunk, the only wonder being that he was not killed before.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

Editors Memphis Appeal.

Gents: Either through some careless telegraphic expressions, or some other source, I find a very erroneous impression afloat in regard to the feeling and harmony of the Convention. I deem it proper, therefore, to correct the impression. I have attended a good many conventions in my life, and even when composed of men who had, for years, worked together in the political party-harness, I never saw as much unity of purpose in any of them as I saw at Nashville. And in view of the times and the material that composed the Convention, I think it one of the most remarkable events in the history of the world. Since the real people of the State met in Convention, it should be remembered that we have passed through four years of cruel strife, with brother arrayed against brother in the field of battle, where many of the brave and true on both sides were made to sleep the sleep of death. Three years of domestic usurpation and tyranny, accompanied by every form of insult to the public sensibilities, have succeeded the four years of war. In the face of these events were called together men who have for forty years been arrayed against each other in political party strife affected with all the usual feelings of antipathy and party animosity incident to such strife. Union men and Secessionists, Federal soldiers and Confederate soldiers; young men, hot and fiery; old men, burdened with the prejudices of a life time; all these elements were brought together and were to be harmonized and moulded into one homogeneous mass, and made to move as by a common impulse for the attainment of a common purpose. Under ordinary circumstances any reasonable man would have said such a thing was impossible. And yet, Mr. Editor, all that was done in a single day. Upon some slight unimportant questions of expediency there was some diversity of opinion. And even then not half nor a fourth as much as I have seen in other days among the old trained members of political parties. But in all the spiritual element of political brotherhood, in all that relates to the successful vindication of the constitutional rights of a betrayed people—there was in the Convention but one heart and mind—one purpose—and that was to redeem the land of our fathers and the Constitutional Government which they gave from the hands of the robber hosts that now assume to rule, and bring back the bright and glorious sunshine of political prosperity and happiness of former times—to resurrect the spirit of Washington, Madison and Jackson, and place the country once more on the high road of prosperity and peace.

CAMDEN.

POLICE ITEMS.

—Scalawag Eggleston, the nigger candidate for Governor of Mississippi, is in town. Three hen roosts were robbed last night.

—There were only two arrests up to 6 o'clock yesterday reported at Causey station—both State cases.

—Sergt. Taylor and officer Burks, of the lower district police, yesterday arrested and lodged in the Causey street station the negro Brown, who some weeks ago shot officer Sweatt. They picked him up on the street in Chelsea.

—'Squire Black yesterday issued a warrant against one Kate Fisher, a white woman, for miscegenation, and also being drunk and disorderly.

—Charles Smith was carried before 'Squire Black yesterday, charged with larceny, by his "better half," Lou Smith. Charles made a counter charge aginst Louisa, and the 'Squire has appointed 3 o'clock to-day to hear the arguments in the case.

—Sutterfield, charged with assault and battery, was yesterday discharged by 'Squire Griffith.

MEMPHIS CLUB HALL.—We understand that Judge Hunter, of the Criminal Court, yesterday called upon the President of the Memphis Club, accompanied by the Sheriff, and announced his determination to take possession of the Club Room as a Criminal Courtroom. The President of the Club informed the Judge that he would have to take a few preliminary legal steps before he could get the required possession. The matter remains in statu quo at present, but the great "contemptible" hangs on to his idea, and we understand will make the preliminary move soon.

REMNANTS suitable for boys' wear, for men's wear and children's wear, very cheap at Menken Bros.'

I. O. B. B. PICNIC.—A large concourse of our Hebrew fellow-citizens assembled yesterday at James' Park, the well-known picnic grounds, and from early morning until ten o'clock last night enjoyed themselves as only that portion of our community know how. As we have stated in our columns before, the object of the picnic was to aid an established fund of the Beni Berith, or "sons of charity," to build an asylum for the widows and orphans of the Jewish race, and from its inception, all seemed to devote themselves to the object with a single-heartedness which guaranteed success. To the ladies especially, great credit is due for their exertions. We regret that an illness prevents our giving a detailed account of the day's amusements, as we were present during a portion of the day, and were most highly gratified at the manner in which everything passed off. Our thanks are due to Messrs. Doernberg and Ackerman and Mesdames Loeb and Kaufman, for attentions shown us on the grounds.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

The levee was quiet yesterday, and afforded few items of interest. Freight was scarce, but a large increase in the number of passengers bound North was apparent. The Marble City was uncomfortably crowded. One cause of this increased travel is the continued suspension of railroad communication. Aside from this, the river is generally preferred at this season. The weather was clear and warm, with a fair breeze most of the day. The river at this point continues to rise very slowly. It was rising a little at St. Louis at latest advices. Ohio river was falling, but, like the Mississippi, was at good stage. Arkansas river is falling, with scant three feet below Little Rock. White river is at good stage and falling.

Arrivals.

Steamer Alaska, New Orleans.

Departures.

Steamer Alaska, Cincinnati.
" Celeste, Arkansas river.
" Marble City, St. Louis.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Celeste left for the Arkansas with but a very moderate trip.

The R. E. Lee was some 24 hours over due from Louisville last night. She is bound for New Orleans.

Among the departures by the Marble City last evening was Mr. Cooper, late Assessor of this District. He is bound for New York.

It was evident that the Marble City carried off an object of interest last evening, judging from the number of bachelor steamboatmen with moist eyes, looking after her receding form from the wharf boat.

The next regular packet for St. Louis will be the Belle St. Louis. She is to leave on Saturday.

The Liberty will be in port this morning. She is the regular Saturday mail packet for all points on White river.

The Dexter, Capt. Montgomery, will pass down to day for New Orleans and way points.

Captain Enoch Taylor, agent of the Great Western Dispatch, returned home on Wednesday, from a visit East. He has effected such an arrangement as will insure the speedy transportation of cotton via the "direct route" to Norfolk and Liverpool.

Col. J. W. Jefferson, the well-known Cotton Factor, returned yesterday from New Orleans and the Gulf where he has been revelling in red fish and oysters.

Mr. R. A. Thompson, formerly Commercial editor of a cotemporary, returned home yesterday from a visit to the East. Mr. Thompson was welcomed home by many warm friends, to whom he has endeared himself during a journalistic career in our midst of several years.

There was no boat in port last evening after the regular departures.

Capt. Bob Riley, late of the City of Cairo, is making a good thing of the show business in St. Louis. He talked of bringing the show to Memphis, but hearing that times were hard, changed his programme in favor of another direction.

Capt. Si Hemminway is still agent for the Memphis and White river packet company at St. Louis, and is laying the foundation for a good business when the times become more favorable.

It is a rare thing to see a steamer at the Cairo wharf these dull times, and the levee generally looks deserted and uninviting. Memphis is not by any means the dullest place on the river.

E. B. Byington left St. Louis the other day to attend a Ticket Agents' Convention at Cleveland, and was to return the last of this week.

A favorite amusement with idle steamboatmen these dull times is "penny ante," and it is said that one of our river cotemporaries is not adverse to taking a hand occasionally.

Arrivals from below report crop prospects still very encouraging and planters full of hope.

Competition is still very active at St. Louis, and rates of freight are immensely low.

Keiser Bros., of St. Louis, got a contract the other day to take several thousand tons of government freight to Forts Rice and Stevenson, at $45 per ton. The G. B. Allen will be the medium of transportation.

The John Kilgour will be down from Cincinnati, and the Commonwealth from St. Louis, in a day or two, both bound for New Orleans.

A green chap who came down on the Marble City, was fleeced out of all his money by a gambler, who smilingly proposed a friendly game of euchre just to pass away time. He had just settled in Missouri, and was returning to Mississippi for his wife. His loss was $350. The gambler disappeared from the boat at Hickman, just as the passengers were about to make him fork over.

Enoch Taylor returned from New York a day or two ago. He succeeded in making arrangements for direct trade with Europe, and during the coming season will give through bills lading for cotton to Liverpool. Enoch's a brick—a gem of the first water.

NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.

GROVESTEEN & CO.,

499 Broadway, N. Y.,

THESE instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, who, at our solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been pronounced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANOFORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.

It has always been our policy, during the thirty-four years that we have manufactured Pianos, twelve thousand of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to give the finest instrument at the lowest cost. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to three hundred dollars less than any other First Class House.

The tone of these instruments are remarkable for their peculiar Sweetness and great Brilliancy, never losing their quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register combining its positiveness, does not destroy the middle and upper registers by mingling with them in disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of tone being equally delightful to the unpracticed and to the most cultivated ear.

They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four Bridround corners front and back, heavily carved legs and Lyre Serpentine Base richly moulded, and each instrument is fully warranted for five years. sep5 dawly

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE NATIONAL

COMPANY.

A new enterprise, to be known as the National Telegraph Company, has been organized with valuable franchises conferred by a recent act of Congress for the purpose of establishing Trunk Lines of Telegraphs on all the principal railroads and mail routes in the United States. The stock is to be issued upon the same principle as that of the Merchant's Union Express Company, which recently commenced operations. The design is to interest the entire business community in the enterprise. This is done, not so much to dispose of the stock as it is to secure the business of the country through which the lines pass.

The Capital is to be

$10,000,000,

In 100,000 Shares, of the par value of

$100 PER SHARE,

But the actual amount to be paid in cash is

$35 Per Share,

And this amount is to be paid as follows: One per cent. of the par at the time of subscribing, and no more, until the entire capital has been subscribed, and then on calls to be made by the Board of Directors; instalments not to exceed five per cent. per month. When thirty-five per cent. of the par value of the shares has been paid, certificates of stock will be issued This will give the company a paid up

CASH CAPITAL OF $3,500,000,

Which will be sufficient to duplicate lines to all or nearly all the paying points reached by the present monopoly.

The present Telegraph Companies of the country have been consolidated into one huge monopoly, and are now earning over SIX MILLIONS OF DOLLARS per year, or over one hundred per cent. on the actual cost of their lines, their present capital having been watered over ONE THOUSAND per cent.

THE NATIONAL TELEGRAPH COMPANY have a recognition from the United States Government of the importance of their enterprise, with a grant of the most valuable franchises ever conferred upon a telegraph company. No competing line has ever had the right now granted by Congress to this company to construct and operate lines over every RAILROAD and MAIL ROUTE in the United States. The position of this company differs from that of any company ever before organized. The question of the RIGHT OF WAY IS FOREVER SETTLED.

The stockholders of this company cannot be sold out or TRANSFERRED to any other company. The set of Congress under which this company has been organized prohibits any transfer of the franchises granted.

CALLS---HOW TO BE MADE.

One per cent. of the Stock will be required on subscribing, and subsequent calls, not to exceed five per cent. per month, will be made by the Board of Directors, from time to time, as may be necessary, to supply funds to construct and equip the lines; but no calls will be made after the one per cent is paid, until the ENTIRE CAPITAL STOCK shall have been subscribed.

ACTUAL CAPITAL REQUIRED

The Company confidently believe that thirty-five per cent. of the Capital Stock will construct and fully equip

25,000 MILES OF WIRE,

Which will connect all the commercial cente and important places in the United States This opinion rests upon the most reliable estimates and responsible offers to construct and equip the lines.

The National Telegraph Company is organized under the Laws of the State of New York and franchises conferred by an act of Congress, approved July 24, 1866.

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Noon Dispatches.

BROWNSVILLE, June 11, 1 p.m.—The following decisions were rendered in the Supreme Court this morning: Skipwith vs. Johnson, Williams vs. Inman, Galt & Co., Wickersham vs. Williams, decisions reversed; Gates & Wood vs. Holdinz, supercidias denied.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Maj-Gen. Meade arrived here to-day, on business with Gen. Grant concerning the affairs of his Military District.

The Conservative members of the two Boards of the Washington City Councils met in joint session this evening, and were encouraged in their proceedings by the appearance of the Republican Alderman of the First ward, who claimed that the Board of which he was a member was not properly organized, therefore he took his seat among the Conservatives. The committee heretofore appointed, reported that they were still unable to obtain the returns from the Republican register in order to count them, so as to determine who is elected Mayor. Under these circumstances, they offered a resolution, which was adopted, that the joint meeting adjourn till to-morrow afternoon, for the purpose of electing a Mayor ad interim. A resolution was adopted inviting the Republican members to attend on the occasion.

The Chinese embassy, accompanied by Secretary McCulloch, visited Mount Vernon this afternoon.

NEW YORK, June 11.—A special to the Herald, at 5 oclock yesterday evening, says Michael, the reigning Prince of Servis, while walking in the Fopeschadoer Park, was shot down by three men, armed with revolvers. There was great excitement caused by the assassination. Prince Michael was born September 4, 1828, and was the youngest son of Prince Melech. He belonged to the Obrenovitch, the reigning dynasty in Servia.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, MEMPHIS, June 11, 1868.

The weather to-day was warm, the sun darting fierce rays from an unclouded sky, but thanks to a fair breeze from the West, shady places were not all uncomfortable, and as business of all kinds presented no enlivening features, there was ample opportunity to enjoy them. Leaving aside the moderate bustle of promenaders on Main street, our business thoroughfares presented rather a lifeless aspect and at the banks there was little or no movement of consequence. Money matters continue easy and very quiet. In consequence of moderate purchasers of railroad and municipal securities on Eastern and Northern account, Exchange is in rather better supply, resulting in a reduction of the shipments of currency heretofore necessary to keep up a supply. At the leading banks the current rates for Northern and Eastern cities are par buying, and ¼ premium selling, excepting New York, on which point the selling rate is ½ premium.

Gold was very quiet and in fair supply in the hands of bankers and brokers, at 140, at which rate there seemed to be an absence of buyers. Small amounts presented at the counter passed at 139½ to 139. In New York the metal opened at 139¾ and closed at 140.

County Scrip is dull, dealers offering 60¤ and asking 65¤.

Police Scrip was unchanged—nominally the same as quoted yesterday.

In City Scrip there was also little movement, leaving the market rather indefinite, but the feeling is generally one of firmness, and holders can sell readily to dealers at 75¤, but there is little offering. City Bonds, ex-July coupons, are in good demand, under orders from New York, Boston, Baltimore, etc., as well as from local speculators, and we learned of transactions to-day amounting to $25,000 at 52 to 53½. The tendency is decidedly upward, and sellers are scarce.

Accounts from the country are still very encouraging, with regard to the growing crops, and confidence in a good time coming is steadily increasing.

In regard to business and money matters in New York during the past week, the Commercial Bulletin of Monday says:

The controlling influences in the financial markets arising from the easy rates for money have continued through this week, and Governments, stocks and bonds have all advanced in price. The principal activity has been in Governments, and those from the various causes mentioned from day to day in our financial report have sold very largely. The money market will probably be easy till the preparation for the July statement by the banks makes it somewhat closer again. Last year in the corresponding week the market was tight, a very remarkable stringency for that season of the year was brought on by the action of the Treasury in selling bonds and increasing its currency balances. Governments and Railroad Stocks were unusually firm under the higher rates of money, but was sustained by extraneous causes.

In the market for general merchandise there has not been a single unusual feature. Prices have in some cases shown weakness, such having been the case in provisions and also in cotton to the extent of half a cent. The leading articles of groceries have been firm. Dry goods have hardly improved at all, and prices are now considered low.

In the corresponding week of 1867 prices generally tended downward, influenced to a certain extent by the closeness of the money market. Breadstuffs, cotton, pork and sugar were all lower. Dry goods improved a little in the demand but not in prices, the principal cause of improvement seemed to be the warmer weather.

Late advices from England do not indicate a favorable reaction in prices of cotton. A Manchester paper says:

"Affairs generally appear to be very uncertain, and in some respects an actual stagnation is apparent. In the spinning department the system of short time has been commenced, and the following is the latest report with regard to the state of affairs therein: Mr. Seed's Derby sheet mills are running three days a week; Mr. J. Humber's Victoria mill, three days; Napier's Wellington mill, four days; Cocksbuth's Penwortham mill, four days, and Edmund Gardner's mill, four days, and Dixon's mill broke down a few days ago, and it will take at least a fortnight to repair the damage, the men being of course out of employment in the meantime. Crompton Ashton mill is now stopped, but whether it is from being overstocked is not known, neither has it been ascertained when work will be resumed. Reese Brothers, Fylde Road mills, are working up preparatory to a stoppage. At several mills many pairs of mules have been stopped through superiority of stock. Dyson's mill, Aqueduct street, is also closed, in consequence of stock being up, and when work will be resumed is unknown."

Cotton was quiet at the opening to-day in Liverpool. Uplands, 11½d; Orleans, 11½d, and at noon was dull and declining, with quotations nominally unchanged. Sales, 5000 bales.

The New York market at the opening was inactive, with prices drooping and nominal. Low Middlings, 28¢; Middlings, 29½¢; Orleans, 30¢; Good Middlings, 31c. At noon the market was dull and nominal, and at the close was flat, entirely nominal and weak. There was a better inquiry here to-day. The agents of Western spinners picked up a few lots upon a basis of 28 to 28½c for full up Middlings, very little of which, however, is in the market.
